Three Injured Fatally In Week-end Accidents

Companion of Rowles Says Machine Was Traveling Extremely Fast

James Rowles, 47, employed as a butler at the Wiltwyck Mission at West Park, was the first of three week-end fatalities caused by motor cars in this county. Rowles was struck by a north bound motor car as he attempted to cross the road near the mission at 11:20 o'clock Saturday night but the driver failed to stop and a wide search is being made for the car.

A partial identity of the car has been established by State Police and an alarm has been sent out by radio to all police agencies in an effort to locate the car and driver.

Sergeant E. J. Hulise was not notified of the accident until 11:45 o'clock and by that time the driver of the car which was being driven at a fast rate northerly at the time of the accident, had ample opportunity to get a long distance from the scene of the crash. Garages and service stations are being checked for the car which is known to have been a General Motors product.

Rowles suffered a fracture of the skull and a broken leg, an autopsy indicated. His leg was broken off completely and he bled so profusely that either that or the fracture of the skull could have been the cause of death. Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was summoned and issued a permit to move the body.

The car traveling north along Payne's hill struck Rowles as he and Maurice Bell, 35, a companion from the Mission, were about to cross the road. Rowles started to cross the road and his companion was hit by the car. The car was proceeding at a high speed and apparently struck Rowles as he reached the middle strip of the three strip cement pavement. After the impact the car continued on.

Rowles' body was dragged some distance before it was thrown to the right of the road. Bell believed his companion had been struck head-on by the car in the center strip but after the crash the headlight rim of the car was found at the scene indicating that Rowles had been struck by the right side of the car and after his body was carried a distance it was tossed off to the right of the highway. The lights and fender of the offending car were damaged.

Employed since May at the Mission as a butler for Dr. Sunderland, religious head of the mission, Rowles was married and is survived by his wife, whose place of residence was not known.

Ernest A. Kelly, Kingston undertaker, took charge of the body.

Recover 18 Bodies

London, Sept. 11 (AP)—Eighteen bodies have been taken from the sunken submarine Thetis, in shallow Moelfre Bay off the north coast of Wales, and divers hoped for good weather today to recover the remaining 81. Sixteen were brought ashore yesterday. When the Thetis sank in a test dive June 1 only four of her 103 occupants escaped.

Reports Car Stolen

William Schreiber of Kingston, R. D., reported to the sheriff's office early Sunday morning that his car had been stolen from near the Avalon. A general alarm was sent out. The car is a tan colored Terraplane sedan; license 8D 5882.

New Jersey Man Dead; Four Injured in Crash

Albert A. Teetsell Fatally Injured Crossing Street

Albert A. Teetsell for many years town clerk of Saugerties and operator of an insurance business in the village, was fatally injured about 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening when he was struck by a car operated by Robert W. Hart, 31, of 132 Second avenue, Kingston. The accident happened on Main street, Saugerties, while Mr. Teetsell was out with his dog. At the time Mr. Teetsell was crossing the street on his way home and the accident took place about 100 feet north of Bennett avenue and near the Roseland diner on Main street.

Mr. Teetsell suffered a compound fracture of both legs, his liver and lungs were badly torn, he had several fractured ribs on the right side and a fracture at the base of the skull. Taken to the Bonesteel Sanitarium after the accident he died before medical aid could be given by Dr. B. W. Gifford. Mr. Mills was a man about 70 years of age and was prominent in Republican circles and well known throughout the township of Saugerties.

Hart was placed under arrest by Chief of Police Arthur W. Richter of the Saugerties police department and held by Justice Charles H. Bennett on a charge of criminal negligence for grand

Automobiles Collide Near Staten Island Inn Early Sunday Evening in Another Crash

Norvin Holle, 33, of 114 Tuxedo Square, Teaneck, N. J., a former resident of Kingston, was fatally injured Sunday evening about 8 o'clock on the Saugerties road near the former Green Shingle Inn at the junction of the Titen bridge road and route 9-W. Holle had come to Ulster county Saturday to spend his vacation with his friend, Carl Finch, of Harwich street. He was employed as an elevator operator in New York city.

Sunday evening they started northerly along route 9-W and according to the report of the crash made to State Troopers Arthur Reilly and Benson, the car was struck amid-ship by a car operated by Lee Shaw of R. F. D. 1, Box 374, who had been proceeding southerly along the road and was about to make a left turn into the Titen Bridge road where he lives. Holle died from a very severe fracture of the skull as he was being admitted to the Benedictine Hospital, where he was taken by the Conner Ambulance Service. Holle was bleeding very freely from both ears as he was being taken to the hospital.

In the Shaw car beside Mr. Shaw was Evelyn Shaw, his wife; Alfred Shaw, 6, and Robert Shaw, 14 months old. All four were injured. Mr. Shaw was said to have a possible fracture of the hip, his

Bombproof Tunnel

To Protect Lives of New York City's Inhabitants By Assuring Their Daily Water Supply

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—An 85-mile bombproof tunnel leading into New York city is being rushed to completion.

It is the longest structure of its kind in the world and will cost $272,000,000. Twenty-six men have lost their lives building it. Already the tunnel is being guarded against sabotage.

Its purpose: To protect the lives of New York city's 7,000,000 inhabitants—not as an air-raid shelter, but by assuring their daily water supply.

The tunnel is the Delaware aqueduct, stretching from the western slope of the Catskill mountains to the outskirts of the city—under cities, lakes, rivers, forests, fields and farms.

Almost entirely invisible, the tunnel runs 600 feet below the surface on the average and at one place dives 1,500 feet.

The project, started two years ago, is divided in 26 individual shafts. The most difficult part of boring through solid rock under the Hudson river was started last week.

After surging the 85 miles through the bore from the mountains to the city, 1,200,000,000 gallons of water a day will shoot into the air through 3,500 nozzles at an aerating plant on the Bronx-Yonkers city line.

The aeration is a form of filtering which takes out tastes, odors and other foreign matter. The tunnel, scheduled to go into operation in 1944, will step up the city's water supply 50 per cent.

President to Announce Call for Special Session

Consults With Secretary Hull on War Abroad, Discusses Rising Food Prices With Wallace —Directs Attention to Special Session

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, returning from a week-end at Hyde Park, N. Y., consulted immediately with Secretary Hull on the war abroad, called in Secretary Wallace to discuss mounting food prices, and directed his attention further toward the question of when to summon Congress to a special session.

Stephen T. Early, Presidential secretary, said the answer to all special session inquiries from members of Congress was that there are no immediate plans. It was reported authoritatively at Hyde Park last night that before the end of the week he would summon the legislators to a session at which he wants the converted arms embargo provision stripped from the neutrality law.

The date remained indefinite, however. Since Mr. Roosevelt would have to allow time for members of Congress to pack up and come to the capital, some authorities thought the session would not begin before early October.

Administration officials were hoping for a short session, restricted to patching up the neutrality act along lines suggested by Secretary Hull. Primarily, they want repeal of the provision forbidding exports of arms, ammunition and instruments of war to combatant countries.

The prospect of a filibuster was described as one of the principal reasons for delaying the summons as long as it has been. The administration was represented as being none too pleased at the idea that Congress might discuss neutrality for a protracted period.

Some officials were understood to be concerned over European reaction to the debate, particularly because of suggestions that any change in the rules of the game while a war was in progress might be interpreted as neutral.

Although the state department kept Mr. Roosevelt advised of latest maneuvers in the war abroad over the week-end, the President had his first real rest since the hostilities began.

He attended morning service yesterday at St. James Episcopal Church, of which he is senior warden, and heard the pastor read from an Old Testament passage in which God told the Prophet Habakkuk of violence to be visited upon those who "plundered many nations."

The chief executive was returning to a White House whose staff he had converted, in an executive order issued Saturday at Hyde Park, into an agency designed to provide a smoother and more effective flow of work.

The order made provision, too, for the establishment in the executive office of a division, which would supply, "in the event of a national emergency or threat of a national emergency," an agency for "emergency management."

Stephen T. Early, a Presidential secretary, said he could see in the new arrangement no place for what frequently has been termed a "brain trust." He said a brain trust, as it was known in the New Deal's early days, had been non-existent some time.

In response to questions of whether the "roving commissions" of Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas G. Corcoran have been withdrawn and their work assigned to others, Early told newsmen today that their names had never been mentioned in the present setup and he had never heard the President speak the names of either in that connection.

Where Is Brain Trust? Asked how seriously stories of the brain trust being put on the shelf should be taken, Early countered with questions of his own. He asked whether there was a brain trust and where it might be.

A reporter said that "it seems to have dwindled to Corcoran and Cohen." The secretary said the sense of the statement was good. "Corcoran and Cohen are not in the White House," Early said. "They never have been, and one is employed by the RFC and the other by the national power policy committee."

"I see no change in their status, except that by executive order, for the first time the President definitely has assigned prescribed duties to his office staff and secretariat."

Someone noted that under the order, Early and Brigadier General E. M. Watson, another secretary, were assigned to handle contacts with Congress. It was suggested that that fact might provide the answer to whether the work of Corcoran and Cohen, outside their official duties, had been handed to some one else.

Early told reporters to draw their own conclusions.

James G. Connelly Is Named Assistant District Attorney

JAMES G. CONNELLY

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray this morning announced the appointment of James G. Connelly of this city as Assistant District Attorney to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of N. LeVan Haver. Mr. Haver, the Republican candidate for election this fall to the office of district attorney, resigned as assistant last fall due to the immediate demands of his private practice.

Since Mr. Haver resigned the office of assistant district attorney has been vacant.

With the opening of the fall grand jury sessions this week and the necessity of clearing the calendar of a large accumulation of cases which have piled up during the summer recess of the courts, Mr. Murray has found it necessary to make an appointment.

James G. Connelly is the son of Alderman and Mrs. James E. Connelly of West O'Reilly street and a lifelong resident of Kingston. After completion of his studies at Kingston High School Mr. Con-

U. S. Airplane and Arms Plants Now Closed to Canada

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—This country's arms and airplane factories were closed as a source of supply for Canada today by a presidential proclamation invoking the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act, which President Roosevelt hopes Congress will soon repeal.

Within little more than an hour after the British Dominion had declared war on Germany yesterday, the state department made public the proclamation banning shipments of arms, ammunition and implements of war to her.

A few hours later a high authority near the White House, N. Y., where Mr. Roosevelt spent the week-end, said the President had decided to issue a call this week for a special session of Congress. The administration wants to limit legislation for the session to revision of the neutrality act and, primarily, to elimination of its provision that the Chief Executive shall forbid arms exports to warring nations.

Many persons on both sides of the revision controversy agree that Britain and France would benefit chiefly from repeal, contending that, although American arms markets would be opened to all the belligerents, Britain would be able to prevent shipments from reaching Germany.

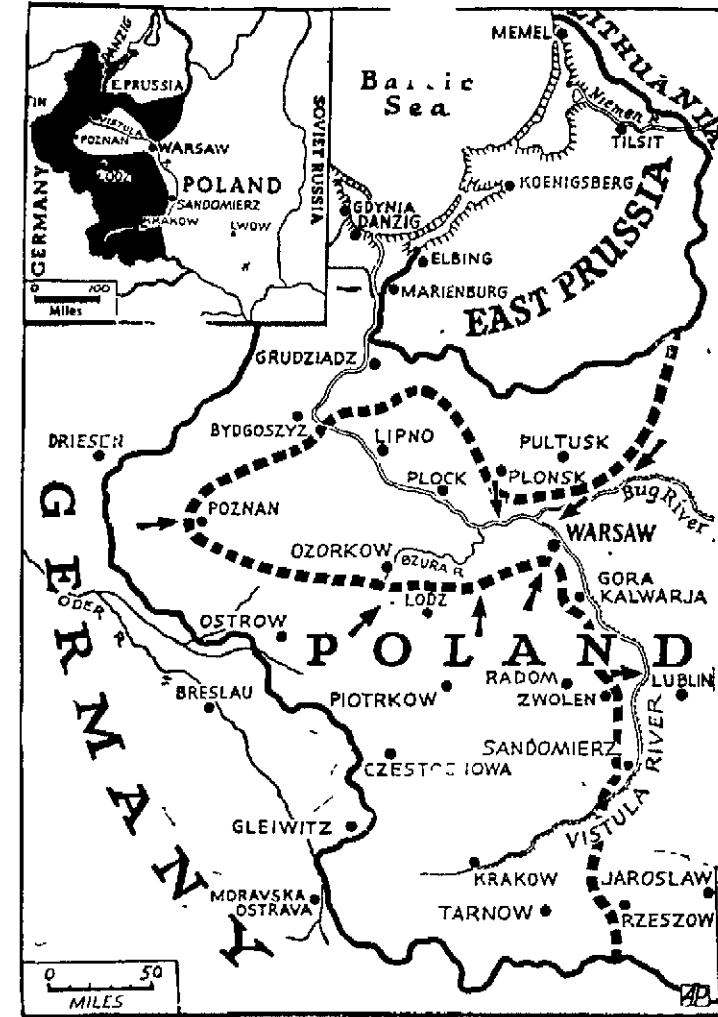

Senator Borah (R., Idaho), a leader of the congressional group which prevented Senate action last session on the President's proposal to revise the statute, ended a vacation in Maine last night and started back to the capital. Beyond a terse "I'll be there," he declined comment on the forthcoming special session. Previously, he had declared that repeal of the arms embargo would lead the country into war.

Red Cross Meeting

Mobilization of the forces of the American Red Cross for war work is to begin. A meeting of the executive committee of the local chapter will be held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the county judge's office in the court house to discuss the emergency and lay plans for Ulster county activities.

Nazi Command Reports Great Battle Is Raging

German-Polish Battle

The German pincer on Warsaw appeared to be tightening with Berlin reports of the capture of Lodz, 80 miles southwest of the Polish capital. Dotted lines show approximate position of German line at time the fall of Lodz was claimed. Small map also shows Lwow, which was warned by Polish officials to prepare for a siege. This map also shows Russian frontier where Soviet troops massed. Black area indicates what Germany has seized to establish boundaries as they existed in 1914.

Warsaw Digs in For Fourth Day of Siege

Berlin Announces Capturing Lodz, Textile Center

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF
Berlin, Sept. 11 (AP)—A German supreme high army command's communique acknowledged for the first time today that a major battle is in progress in Poland.

Until now, resistance by the Poles appeared to have been broken easily.

The fight for possession of Warsaw seems only to have begun. In the west also, fighting appears gradually to be getting under way as demonstrated by the communique's report that an abandoned airfield at Saarbrücken had been bombed.

German sources said there seemed to be little doubt that remaining Polish forces west of the Vistula river were being mopped up by the German army.

In the south, they said, Polish troops appeared to be fighting gallantly against overwhelming odds.

Nothing was said in the com-

German High Command Acknowledges for First Time That Major Battle Is in Progress

Budapest, Sept. 11 (AP)—German planes, tanks and big guns were reported massing for a concentrated drive on Lwow (Lemberg) today in an effort to cut Poland's line of communications with Rumania, its sole avenue for supplies, by capturing the capital of the Polish Ukraine.

The rapid turn of events left the location of the Polish government in doubt. One report here said headquarters had been moved to Krzemieniec, 250 miles southeast of Warsaw and almost on the border of Soviet Russia. Other reports said the government had gone from Lublin to Lwow, and was moving eastward from there.

As Warsaw dug in for its fourth day of siege by a German force that launched more than 40 air raids and countless tank attacks yesterday, the radio station at Lwow, 210 miles to the southeast, instructed the city's defenders to dig trenches and erect street barricades.

There were indications the Ger-

Awaiting the White Flags

Berlin, Sept. 11 (AP)—Germany is waiting for Poland to "raise the white flag of surrender," an authoritative Berlin source said today. "That will ensure a sensible and decent peace," this informant asserted, but added that meanwhile Germany had but one task in the east: "Let arms speak and break the resistance of the Polish army." When asked what kind of peace Germany might offer Poland, an informed source said that depended "on many imponderables." German spokesmen pointed out that by the terms of her treaty of mutual aid with Britain, Poland can not make peace alone. She must consult London and Paris.

Force Germans to Retreat

Budapest, Sept. 11 (AP)—A broadcast from the Polish radio station at Lwow today, declared that after four days of bloody fighting the Polish army had forced German invaders "to retreat from some Warsaw suburbs." The report was broadcast at 2.10 p. m. (8.10 a. m., E. S. T.). The Lwow station, about 220 miles southeast of Warsaw, said German planes were bombing the heart of Warsaw, but did not estimate casualties. A Warsaw broadcast two hours earlier had indicated the Polish army still was holding the defense lines of their capital.

Canada Declares War

Ottawa, Sept. 11 (AP)—(Canadian Press).—The question of sending a major expeditionary force to Europe remained to be decided today as Canada offered her resources to Great Britain under a declaration of war with Germany. Less than two hours after Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King sent a copy of the war declaration to the Canadian official Gazette at 1:10 p. m. (12:10 p. m., E. S. T.) yesterday, the United States applied the arms embargo restrictions of the neutrality act to Canada.

French Reported Holding Off German Counter Attacks With Bayonets

(By The Associated Press)

The Poles today broadcast the assertion that after four days of bloody fighting they had forced German invaders "to retreat from some Warsaw suburbs."

Friday a swift German motorized column reached Warsaw from the southwest. Since then the Poles have battled desperately against the enemy at the gates of their capital.

While the battle for Warsaw went on German and French armies saw-sawed inconclusively on the western front.

For the first time the German army high command admitted "a great battle" was in progress. A communique said this was nearing "its climax, the destruction of the Polish army west of the Vistula river," and reported other German gains against the "doggedly defending" Poles.

Budapest dispatches said planes, tanks and artillery were being massed for a quick drive on Lwow, in southeast Poland, to cut communications to Rumania, Poland's only possible land line for help from outside.

On the western front heavily entrenched French and German forces struck at opposite ends of a 100-mile sector between the Rhine and Moselle rivers.

Generally Quiet

The French reported that the front was generally quiet but that they had scored one "local advance." This was on the eastern end of a sector between the Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

At the western end of the Saar Basin line, where the first French advances were made, French were said to be holding off German counter-attacks with bayonets.

Germany said French artillery was firing on the Saarbrücken airfield, which the Germans had abandoned previously, and declared three French planes had been downed.

Swiss reports said the German Siegfried Line was "perfectly prepared" to meet attacks with highly mobile units ready to dash wherever needed. French aerial scouts reported German troop movements were being "bothered" by French raids on communication lines.

Many observers believed that no knockout blow had been delivered the Polish army even though the lightning German assault packed terrific force.

Military experts said the moment was critical and that much depended on how the army had withstood the shock. Fate of the Polish air force was in doubt, but the army was believed to have saved the bulk of its mechanized equipment.

Bombing Around Warsaw

The Polish general staff in a communique said the Germans were continuing relentless bomb attacks around Warsaw, where 40 air raids were reported yesterday.

A similar attack seemed in store for Lwow, capital of the Polish Ukraine, and redoubled defense measures were started.

Britain intensified her naval and economic warfare against Germany after having lost 12 merchantmen in the first eight days of war. The ministry of information disclosed the 8,640-ton Magdapor was the latest victim. Two other vessels were added to the list yesterday.

Britain's reply was what she termed an "unrelenting" campaign of "attacks and counter-attacks" against the U-boats and establishment of three depots to put into effect the "contraband control" system by which she hopes to cut off supplies to Germany.

After a lull in Baltic Sea operations, Germany reported her land and sea forces were cooperating in a campaign to take Gdynia, Poland's only seaport. Gdynia already is cut off from the rest of Poland, but its capture would wipe out the last resistance in the north.

Markets Show No Runaway Drift

So far markets in this country, referring more especially to the New York market, have shown no runaway tendency as a result of the outbreak of hostilities in Europe. It is true that Tuesday, the first day of trading following Great Britain and France's declaration of war on Germany, brought the heaviest trading in nearly two years and the sharpest rise in values in one day for some eight years, as measured in the Dow-Jones averages, industrial stocks advancing an average of over $10 a share, but the next day brought an actual loss, even though small, and the advances which have marked subsequent session of the exchange, have not been remarkable, even if they were substantial. The rails followed the industrial stocks and have shown gains for the past six trading days, but utilities are lagging.

The industrial closed the week Saturday with a gain of .87 point, to 150.81, a net gain of 12.82 points from the close on Saturday, September 2. The rails gained .11 point Saturday and closed at 30.51, a gain of 4.33 points over a week ago. Utilities showed a loss of .17 point Saturday and showed a small net gain of .27 point from the previous Saturday. Trading continued at a heavy pace for the short day, total transactions being 1,555,300 shares.

Despite the rise in security and commodity markets the past week it is suggested that prices still, in many cases at least, and speaking particularly of farm products, are far from extreme levels. For the week ended September 2 the general level of farm prices had advanced 30 per cent from the 1932 level, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, but were still 37.3 per cent below the level for the year 1926. Industrial goods were better off, being only 19.6 below that level. Since September 2 all prices advanced, but it is a question whether they yet have exceeded the averages for last year, let alone reaching the 1937 level.

Moving picture company officials are cautioning production officials to watch expenses and exercise care in budgeting pictures, as there is threat of further loss of European markets because of the war. There is a move to film comedies and lighter subjects than those covered by the general run of pictures scheduled.

From the Department of Agriculture comes the statement that the government may increase, or suspend entirely, existing quotas on sugar, if the present trend toward consumer hoarding of the commodity continues. The action will be taken because of hoarding rather than because of any actual shortage in sugar stocks.

France has issued a decree regulating capital exports and gold traffic, to save the nation's gold stock from the risk of being utilized for any other purpose than the prosecution of the war. Due to the war conditions Canada is seen as likely to shift some buying to the United States.

Delegate to National Legion Convention

Commander John Melville of Kingston Post of the American Legion was selected as a delegate to the National American Legion convention in Chicago September 25-28, representing the Third District of New York state. Chief of Police Walter Clark of Highland was chosen as alternate. The selections were made at the Legion convention held in Albany last week. The convention closed on Saturday.

Schenectady was chosen as the 1940 convention city for the state convention.

Buses for Excursion

The Kingston Transportation Corp. today announced that buses leaving for the excursion from Kingston Point, Tuesday, would start from Wall and North Front street Tuesday morning at 5:30 o'clock. Time for the boat to leave the landing for New York is 6 o'clock. Extra buses will be at the Point to meet the return boat.

60 Days for Assault

Elmer Cooper, 44, New Paltz negro, arrested Sunday by Trooper Andrew Klein on a charge of assault in the third degree, was sentenced to 60 days in the Ulster county jail when arraigned before Justice U. Parker Decker.

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Heavy buying in war stocks swept through the market today and lifted leaders 1 to around 8 points, many to peak levels in more than a year.

Steels were far and away the favorites. They reached their tops in late dealings after the announcement this week's steel mill operations would be up 11.6 points at 70.2 per cent of capacity, highest rate since September 27, 1937.

During the entire first hour the ticker tape was as much as six minutes behind. There were intermittent slow-downs, but transfers for the full proceedings were indicated at approximately 5,000,000 shares. Near the final hour quotations in the neighborhood of the day's best.

Brokerage offices were crowded with customers eager to get aboard the climbing van and purchasing orders from all over the country swamped perspiring clerks who only a few weeks ago were looking forward to dismissal because of dwindling commission house activities.

Fastest sprinter in the early run-away was Bethlehem Steel, ranking as one of the chief "war babies." This stock started with a block of 6,000 shares, up 4 1/2 at 93, then got up several points more. Prominent with lesser advances also were U. S. Steel, Youngstown and Republic.

Stimulating renewal of the up-swing, however, suggested, was growing belief the overseas conflict would be a long drawn-out and that United States industries in all groups would benefit, especially if the proposed special session of Congress amends the neutrality law permitting belligerents to do business with this country on a "cash-and-carry" basis.

Craft's Super Food Market Not Sold

Craft's Super Food Market at 59-61 O'Neil street has not been sold and according to a statement of Raymond E. Craft this morning there have been no negotiations for the sale of the market. For some time there have been rumors about town that negotiations were under way for its sale and a few days ago the Big Street liar began to circulate a report as to what concern was interested.

"The market is not for sale and we have no intention of selling Craft's Market," said Mr. Craft this morning. "Business is the best ever and we have had no negotiations with any firm for the sale of the market," he continued.

Mr. Craft said that several rumors of a sale of the market had been circulated for the past several weeks but when the name of a supposed buyer was mentioned he said he felt it was time to deny the rumors that Craft's Super Food Market was to change hands. "There is nothing to the story, it is purely a rumor," said Mr. Craft.

Walking Licenses Issued

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA—Walking licenses are issued to children in the Malvern West school, which is teaching its pupils to be "traffic-minded."

The licenses are issued after an examination on the following subjects: How to cross the street, playing on street, dangers of hanging on the backs of cars and giving other children lifts on a bicycle.

If a license holder breaks any rule, he will be brought before a jury of pupils who can inflict penalties such as fines or cancel the culprit's license.

Rev. Oudemool and Wife Tell of Trip From Europe

The Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool returned last evening from a month's vacation in Europe and England which included an exciting and harrowing evacuation from England.

First word of the war scare reached them in England the middle of August when London began its real war preparations. Their original bookings for the return trip were on the S. S. Caldonia sailing from Glasgow, Scotland, September 1.

When the Anchor Line notified them that the Caldonia was being taken off and would not be able to bring them home, the Rev. and Mrs. Oudemool knew that they were perhaps in grave danger. It was three days until they could get any bookings and four days before they sailed they booked passage on the United States Liner Manhattan, which sailed from Southampton September 1.

The greatest excitement was the trip by boat train from London to the pier. Guards lined the railroad track and guarded the boat train with soldiers, sandbags and large guns all along the way. Those who had cameras had to relinquish them to the guards until the boat was ready to sail.

The vessel brought an overflow of 500 passengers, all fugitives from the war area. Although many, in the rush, were obliged to leave their baggage behind, the Oudemools were not inconvenienced in this way. Cots were placed in cabins and public rooms and in all manner of places. After the first few days the three class divisions were strictly maintained. There are some United States liners which are one class ships, but the Manhattan has the three classes.

For the first three days, to add to the great inconvenience of being herded together in cabins meant for only one or two people, nearly all of the 1,573 persons were sea sick. The sea was rough and the excitement and nervousness had been a great strain.

The ship took the northern route of the Scandinavian lines. News bulletins were brief but the passengers were notified Sunday evening, two days at sea, of the sinking of the Athenia, and knew also when England and France declared war.

Due to the crowded conditions there was no form of entertainment for the passengers to pass away the anxious hours, only hours of waiting for news and a desire to return home as speedily as possible.

The ship docked in New York city Thursday, September 7, having lost only one day in its schedule. The Rev. and Mrs. Oudemool spent the remainder of the week in New York before returning to their home on Main street, feeling more grateful than the average European traveler, for their safe return to their homeland.

All Because of Dead Guinea Hen

Investigating a complaint to Sheriff Molyneux Saturday afternoon, by Carson Emberson of St. Remy, that someone had run over and killed one of his guinea hens and later had picked up the hen, Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and Brown ran into a regular series of charges and countercharges.

Emberson secured a warrant against Arthur Tyler of St. Remy, charging petit larceny in having taken the guinea hen. He also charged that Tyler was driving a car although his license had been revoked and suspended.

Meanwhile, Tyler brought a charge of assault in the third degree against Charles Emberson, claiming that the latter struck him in the mouth when he called at the Emberson place to talk settlement of the guinea hen affair.

The two men were arraigned before Justice Benjamin H. Sleight of the Town of St. Remy. Tyler pleaded guilty to the petit larceny charge and was given a suspended sentence of 10 days in the Ulster county jail. He also settled with Emberson for the hen and some young chicks killed, paying him $8. On the charge of driving while his license was suspended he was given a suspended sentence of six months in the county jail. Charles Emberson pleaded guilty to the assault charge and paid a fine of $5.

Finally, one of the deputies discovered that Tyler was driving a car with switched plates. Arraigned before Justice Sleight on this charge Tyler was given a second suspended sentence of six months in jail and the justice confiscated the two plates and the car registration.

Held for Fraud

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—A New York city butcher and a Matteawan State hospital employee were held in Dutchess county jail today on charges of "fraudulently presenting a false claim to a public officer." Leo Greenbaum, 44, of (336 Fort Washington street), New York city butcher, and Thomas Mullin, 49, of Beacon, the hospital employee, were arrested Friday by State Police. The men were scheduled to appear later today in county court to file application for bail.

District Attorney John R. Schwartz refused to discuss details of the case, saying merely: "There are many ramifications to it."

Berlin Announces Capturing Lodz

(Continued from Page One) munique about Lodz, Polish textile center about 70 miles southwest of Warsaw, although a brief special report yesterday announced it had been captured. No explanation was offered for this omission.

After a lull in Baltic Sea operations, the communiqué today reported that German land and sea forces had been cooperating since yesterday in what appeared to be an attempt to capture Gdynia, Poland's only outlet to the sea.

With the German navy in control of the Baltic and with northern Pomorze (the Polish corridor) completely shut off, this harbor is not able to function.

Nevertheless, it was pointed out, its seizure would remove the last vestige of opposition in the north. Although the German army high command foresaw early collapse of Polish resistance, popular hopes that Germany yet might negotiate peace with France apparently were doomed by the reports of fighting in the west.

A succession of new dispatches from the eastern front told of swift, methodical successes by German divisions smashing into Poland.

The air force was reported carrying on operations far beyond Warsaw, destroying bridges and communication lines.

Shattering the Morale

This harrowing action, military officials said, was shattering the morale and impeding the retreat of Polish troops.

The high command reported skirmishes between French and German outposts of the Maginot and Siegfried lines. A French vanguard was said to have sustained heavy losses in an unnamed sector, but no mention was made of how the Nazis fared.

Soviet's new relations with Germany Russia engaged increased attention in official quarters. News of the mobilization of Russian reserves was welcomed, but even greater stress was placed on plans of military leaders for resuming railway communications between the Reich and the Soviets.

Germany has counted on Russia to supply a considerable share of raw materials with which to carry on the war.

The Baltic sea route now is open and completely in control of the German navy. With Poland eliminated as a state which could interfere with land shipments, German strategists laid great weight to the value of the rail connection between Germany and Russia in event the sea route were cut by the British navy.

New Jersey Man Killed in Crash

(Continued from Page One) wife lacerations and injuries of the back. Alfred suffered severe lacerations of the head and a possible fracture of the skull and the baby was suffering from shock and was in convulsions after being admitted to the hospital. Today their condition was reported as fair.

He formerly lived in Kingston and had been about 10 years ago to seek employment in New York city.

Investigation Made

According to the investigation made by the coopers Shaw was proceeding southerly in the center lane of the three-strip pavement in opposition to make a left turn to leave the main highway for his home route. The car from the south was proceeding along in the east lane on its right. Finch said the Shaw car turned suddenly from the center lane to its left and struck his car in the dead center.

The Finch car was turned over and Holle was pinned beneath the top of the car resting on his neck. The Shaw car was turned around in the roadway and headed in an opposite direction with both front tires scuffed off.

The Finch car was lifted from Holle by several people and placed on its wheels and the Conner ambulance was summoned to convey the injured to the hospital. Holle was still alive when he was admitted to the hospital. Finch was uninjured.

An investigation was made by Troopers Reilly and Benson and later Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough arrived with a photographer to make pictures at the scene.

The opening fall meeting of the Men's Club of the church will be held in the chapel on Tuesday evening, September 19, and an interesting program is being arranged.

Negroes Arrested By BWS Officers

Four negroes were arrested by Sergeant Schwall and Patrolman Szerydy of the New York Board of Water Supply Police and Constable Ransel J. Wagar of Modena and arraigned before Justice William B. Carr about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night on charges of assault in the second degree. They were set down for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock before the justice. Meanwhile the four men were committed to the Ulster county jail.

Those arrested were Aaron Johnson, 46, of Modena; Carl Johnson, 33, of Gardiner; Robert Daniels, 57, of Jenkinstown; and Everett Moore, 34, of Modena. The justice said that three of the men carried knives when arrested. The story as told to Justice Carr was to the effect that Officer Szerydy was in civilian clothes at the time, was in a barroom at Modena Saturday night and engaged the four men in conversation. For some reason the men did not like the course the conversation was taking and, according to the information, made a rush for the officer. It is stated that Officer Szerydy threw a chair at the assailants, tangling them up and then made his exit. Later, with Sergeant Schwall, one of the men was taken into custody and with Constable Wagar assisting the three others were identified and arrested shortly afterward.

Motor Vehicles In Ulster County

Three Local Men Elected Officers By 51st Pioneers

Arthur Fox Named President, Cornwall Is Secretary and Keresman Treasurer

Arthur Fox of this city was named president, and two other Kingston men were elected to major offices at the 16th annual re-union of the 51st Pioneer Infantry Association held in Flushing, L. I., yesterday. The attendance was estimated at over 200 and the rally was considered one of the best held by the association.

Other Kingston men named to offices were: Eugene Cornwell, secretary and Peter Keresman, treasurer. Mr. Fox, the association's new president, and the others, served with Company M during the World War.

The business session was held in the morning, the members being the guests of the Veterans' Association of Company I. Leonard Pratt of Flushing, president, presided over the meeting. Before the business session got under way, there were several speakers among whom were: George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens; Captain Frank M. Foley, commanding Company I, 14th Infantry, N. Y. N. G.; William Newburgh, Queens county commander, American Legion; Alex Schwartzman, commander, Louis Blum Post, Jewish War Veterans; James McCabe, county vice-commander, Kings county American Legion; Alfred E. Peterson, president, National Guard Veterans' Association, of Hempstead and Joseph Good, vice-county commander, Queens county, American Legion.

The following officers were elected: President, Arthur Fox; first vice-president, Marx Brozzio, Hudson; second vice-president, Otto Rauch, Delmar; third vice-president, Walter Morris, Flushing; secretary, Eugene Cornwell, Kingston; treasurer, Peter Keresman, Kingston; chaplain, the Rev. W. Francis Miller, Coney Island; historian, Daniel Kennedy, Flushing; sergeant-at-arms, Kenneth W. Cann, Hempstead.

Edward Workman of this city was elected a member of the executive committee, representing Company F.

The historian gave a brief summary of his endeavors to secure information to complete the history of the regiment and following his talk the members voted to set April 1, 1940, the dead line for such information as was needed, and that after that date efforts would be made to have that history available printed in book form.

While it was generally understood that the reunion for next year would be held in Catskill and an invitation was extended to the members to meet there, members of the Machine Gun Battalion of Hempstead extended an invitation to meet there, feeling that it would give the members an opportunity to visit the World's Fair and also attend the reunion. Members of Company E, of Catskill while enthusiastic in anticipation of having it there decided to let the members from Hempstead entertain the organization in 1940 with Catskill slated for the 1941 reunion.

Following the adjournment of the business meeting, the members went by cars to the Vanderbilt Naval Station, Lake Success, Little Neck, L. I., where dinner was served, and various sports enjoyed.

Area Red Cross Seeks Volunteers

Once again the women of America are called to render volunteer service under the banner of the Red Cross for relief of war victims in Europe, it was announced today.

A great need for surgical dressings and garments will arise as war operations continue. The Ulster County Chapter, as every other, must prepare to meet its share of this need. The importance of the production service of the Red Cross in time of war cannot be overestimated. The Ulster County Chapter will soon be ready to start operations, and it is hoped that every woman in the community who can give some of her time to this work, will volunteer.

Injured When Auto And Bicycle Collide

Shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon Joseph Ferrara, 16, of 96 Pearl street, was injured when his bicycle was in collision with an auto driven by Anna Elmendorf of 137 St. James street.

The boy was bruised about the hand, wrist and shoulder and suffered a nose injury.

The driver of the auto said that she stopped her car and talked with the boy who told her he was not badly injured. Later the boy was taken to the Kingston Hospital in one of the police radio cars for treatment.

Charged With Intoxication

Joseph Manzy, 34, of Bridgeport, Conn., a seaman and Charles Kanvers, 21, of Troy, and John Huys, 27, of New York city, the two last giving their occupations as boatmen, were arrested at Marlborough Sunday night by Trooper Martin on charges of public intoxication. They were held at the Ulster county jail pending a hearing this morning before Justice Philip A. Lyon of Milton.

Albert A. Teetsell Fatally Injured

jury action. He was brought to the county jail.

Mr. Teetsell had left his home to exercise his dog and was walking through Main street at the time of the accident. It had been raining earlier in the afternoon but at 7:30 o'clock when the accident happened police said the road had dried.

Hart, who is employed at the Hutton brickyard in this city, told police officers that he had left Kingston and driven north to Saugerties and was on his way to Catskill at the time. He was accompanied by Orlando Costello, Charles Macchone, Stephen Szekeres, James Rua, all of East Kingston. Orlando was in front with the driver as the car passed through Saugerties.

According to Hart the car had stopped at the traffic light at the Saugerties High School corner and then proceeded easterly along the main route to Catskill.

About 100 feet north of Bennett avenue while traveling about 35 miles an hour Hart said he saw a dog run across the street in front of the car and he next saw a man cross after the dog. He said he swerved to the left to avoid the man but was unable to do so. His front left fender struck Mr. Teetsell who was thrown on top of the car. When the car was stopped Mr. Teetsell rolled to the pavement, according to the story told the police.

The other men in the car did not observe the man in the road until it was too late to warn the driver to stop.

Mr. Teetsell had been engaged in the insurance business in Saugerties for some time and was very well known. Beside his wife he is survived by two sons, Glenford and Harry, both of Saugerties.

Coroner Norvin R. Lasher was called and after an investigation the remains were removed from the sanitarium to the Seamon Bros. funeral home. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray ordered an autopsy performed by Dr. Gifford and Dr. J. S. Taylor.

Dedication of Masonic Temple

Kingston's Masonic Temple was dedicated with appropriate services on Saturday evening when addresses were delivered by Alfred D. Van Buren of New York and Dr. Samuel Stern of this city, former district deputy grand masters of this Masonic District, and by Arthur D. Lamb of Saugerties, the present district deputy.

During the afternoon the new temple was thrown open for public inspection and was visited by several hundreds of residents of Kingston and vicinity.

The temple, formerly the Grey residence on Albany avenue, adjoins the Governor Clinton Hotel property. During the past summer the building was remodeled and a lodge room constructed on the second floor for Masonic communications.

With the finishing of the temple this year both Rondout Lodge and Kingston Lodge will hold their regular communications in the temple, having given up their former lodge rooms. Kingston Lodge for years met in Masonic hall on Wall street, and Rondout lodge in the Masonic building, Broadway and Strand.

Saturday the temple rooms were decorated with baskets and vases filled with flowers, including a huge bouquet from Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus.

The dedication services were arranged by Charles H. Gregory of Rondout Lodge, and Roger H. Loughran of Kingston Lodge, both former masters of the lodges and also past district deputies.

The trustees of the temple are Richard W. Heffernan, Donald H. Schoonmaker, Robert G. Groves, Charles F. Lebert, Leslie S. Lyons and Henry H. Swart. The custodian is Philip E. Kearney.

For over a quarter of a century there had been discussion among the members of the Masonic fraternity of Kingston as to the advisability of erecting a temple. Kingston was practically the only important city in the Hudson river valley without a Masonic temple.

Several years ago both Kingston and Rondout Lodges named committees to consider the question of erecting a temple in the city, and that action led later to the purchase of the former Grey residence.

For a few years after the property has been purchased it was used for the Masonic Club, and last year the two lodges voted to have the property remodeled into a Masonic temple.

The first floor contains a reception room, reading rooms, card rooms and a billiard room, while the second floor is devoted to lodge purposes. On the third floor is a smaller lodge room that may be used as occasion requires, and it also contains lockers and storage space.

The dining hall and kitchen are located in the basement.

Held for Hearing

Thomas Gallo, Jr., 24, of East Kingston, was arrested there Saturday afternoon on complaint of his wife, the charge being assault in the third degree. Arraigned before Justice John Watzka he furnished bail in the amount of $25 and was released pending a hearing at 7 o'clock tonight.

YESTERDAY: Tim has been too absorbed in his own unhappiness over his DeMuth, to notice Buff's unhappiness over her parents. Buff breaks down and confides in Tim. He advises her to lead her own life.

Chapter Seven

New Arrivals

Tim and Buff noticed a car driving up. It stopped by the side of the house and several persons alighted from it: a thin, oldish man, a plump, handsomely dressed woman, a girl who was much too fat. They began taking suitcases from the back of the car; dozens of suitcases, it seemed to the two who looked on from the window above.

Atkins appeared suddenly. "Well, here we are!" said the thin man. "A day earlier than we expected, but it worked out that way."

Atkins murmured something. "Nonsense! Nonsense! We paid our rent in advance, didn't we? We agreed on the date? Well, what else is there to understand? Help me in with these suitcases. My wife and daughter are tired. We'd like to go upstairs at once."

Buff was unconscious that she had seized Tim's arm in a vise-like grip.

"He's done it again," she whispered. "He's rented the ranch again."

He answered her thoughtfully. "Sure enough, my month is up tomorrow. He must have dated them at the same time he put the advertisement in the Denver paper." A rare sound broke upon the air. Tim was chuckling. "Able man, Atkins! Shall we go down and deal with him, Buff?"

A few minutes later, Buff and Tim Corliss faced the foreman accordingly.

"Well, Atkins," said Buff. "Ain't much I can say," muttered Atkins. "You know everything, don't you?"

"Wonder if I do! Have you rented the place, month by month, throughout the winter?" The foreman shook his head. "I put an ad in a Denver paper. Mr. Corliss and this man Hunt answered it. Mr. Corliss wanted it right away but Mr. Hunt, he wanted it through October. I didn't see no particular harm in it, Miss Buff. Honest! Just letting them stay here. I was going to foot the bills for supplies, of course. Mrs. Webb was gettin' tired havin' only me to cook for. When you stop to think of it," he continued mournfully, "it ain't really no crime. How could I know you'd come back here, or Mr. Corliss would hurt himself and stay on after his month was up?"

Tim regarded him with cynical amusement. "And what are your plans now, Atkins?"

Atkins made his accusers a present of the entire problem. "I got my things packed and I'm leavin' this afternoon. You kin do what you like about the Hunts. They don't seem to want to take no for an answer."

Buff considered. Atkins might as well go, she thought. He would have to eventually. Dr. Westland had assured her he could get another man.

"All right, Atkins," she said, thereby surprising the man who had expected protest. "But let me be sure of one thing: is this the last in your series of tenancy or will they keep on turning up here, month after month?"

Tim struck in: "You know Miss Carroll could prosecute you, Atkins, I suppose?"

Atkins smiled tolerantly. "My dear Miss Carroll, how do I know that it was a fraud? I answered an advertisement, paid cash in advance, acted in entire good faith. Now you tell me Atkins had no right to rent this ranch until you can prove it we shall stay on, my wife and daughter and I'm in the habit," he told her impressively, "of being fooled."

Tim took quiet charge of the conversation. "So was I. I rented the place for September. I'd been here only a few days when Miss Carroll arrived to close up the house. It's too bad, but Mr. Carroll is the real loser since he's refunding the rent that Atkins has gone off with."

Mr. Hunt spoke three sentences, indicating a mental process which moved somewhat creakily but logically.

"So Atkins has gone, eh? And it's the last day of September and you're still here? If Miss Carroll honored your reservations, to speak, why not mine?"

"Mr. Corliss had a motor accident," Buff intervened in a little stilted way. "Also I have no intention of keeping the house open during October. I'm sorry," she said again, "but I'm afraid you'll have to make other arrangements. It's not worth your while to unpack."

"I beg to differ with you. As a matter of fact, we are unpacked. I shall telephone my lawyer in Denver to look into this matter. I have my receipt," he touched his coat pocket—and I think you'll find it will be difficult to—to evict me." He was so pleased with the word he repeated it. "To evict me, Miss Carroll. No, I feel quite sure I'm legally secure in my position."

"Buff," said Tim, "may I handle this for you? I'll do a little telephoning myself—to a lawyer I know in Boulder. I think we'll get pretty rapid results."

"May I ask your own position here, young man? You came as a tenant—a stranger to Miss Carroll, or so I understand. You were slightly injured, and you remained in spite of the—or so you'd have me believe—illegal proceedings carried on by Atkins. You now address your landlady by her first name. May I ask if the household has consisted during this time of you two young people—alone?"

Alimentary Achievements

Tim kept his temper with an effort. "By no means! Aside from Atkins, Miss Carroll has been chaperoned by Mrs. Webb, the housekeeper. Not that I feel any explanation is owing you; simply to keep the record clear. I advise you to pack, Mr. Hunt. Buff, I'll telephone now and get this matter straightened out. He swung his crutches toward the living room where the telephone was.

Mrs. Webb appeared almost at once to announce dinner and Buff's hospitable heart prompted her to invite her obnoxious tenants to stay even though her anger still simmered at Hunt's implications. Her wrath was not lessened by the significant glance he gave the fat cook. Wearing her apron, her broad red face damp from her exertions, she looked exactly what she was: a servant; by no means a chaperon in the conventional sense of the word.

Mrs. Hunt and her daughter descended at once. "Maudie May," said her father, with a proud wave of his hand toward the fat girl, "Buff with difficulty concealed her joy. 'Maudie May Hunt till she is tired—she won't find a resting place on this ranch!' she murmured to Tim as she followed her guests to the shaded dining room."

"I'm afraid she will overnight," at least, he replied moodily. "I can't get hold of the fellow I want just now—nor anybody else for a while. Big case in court and all the legal lights are tied up. I'll call again later on but this is just the silly sort of thing that takes time to settle."

"I should think all you'd have to do would be to call the sheriff," she told him.

He shook his head. "There was no time for further talk between Mrs. Webb had done her best—or her worst—for the new arrivals. Platters of fried chicken, mounds of fluffy mashed potatoes, mixed with cream, a great bowl of crisp salad, homemade jam and pickles, a green apple pie which melted in the mouth, and a tray of culinary art. Mr. Hunt and his wife with open expressed approval. Maudie May settled herself earnestly to the task of consuming as much food as was possible with actually bursting. Buff, however, fascinated gaze lingered on the fat girl. Tim also could not tear his eyes away from the absorbing spectacle.

There was no hurry, no temperamental skipping from this dish or that. Maudie May was out to make a workmanlike job of dinner with no stretch of the imagination could be called luncheon—and make it the fat girl. She neglected nothing. Crisp stalks of celery were given the same consideration as the savory chicken. Biscuits apparently constituted a sort of filler to occupy whatever crevices there might be in the meal. Her jaws moved rhythmically, tirelessly, stopping only when Maudie May drank from the tall glass of iced tea beside her plate. Glass which was several times refilled.

Buff began to feel choked with food, though she herself ate very little. Tim too trifled with his meal. Occasionally the proud father of one of the fat girls, he glanced at the table as though to call attention to his daughter's alimentary achievement. There was no need. Neither Buff nor Tim could have looked away if the house had caught fire.

Even Mrs. Webb passed from delight in this appreciation of her efforts to definite uneasiness. When Maudie May asked for and received a second piece of pie, she drenched it liberally with thick cream and consumed it with the same earnest attention she had given her first mouthful, the housekeeper's worried glance sought Buff. The girl shook her head slightly.

"Pretty good lunch!" It was the first time Maudie May had spoken save to request that the biscuits be passed or her plate replenished. "Hope dinner is as nice." She yawned without bothering to cover up a mouth as frankly open as a sleepy puppy's. "Guess I'll go up and lay down a while. Ma kinda tired with so much driving."

Chapter Seven

Tim and Buff noticed a car driving up. It stopped by the side of the house and several persons alighted from it: a thin, oldish man, a plump, handsomely dressed woman, a girl who was much too fat. They began taking suitcases from the back of the car; dozens of suitcases, it seemed to the two who looked on from the window above.

Atkins appeared suddenly. "Well, here we are!" said the thin man. "A day earlier than we expected, but it worked out that way."

Atkins murmured something. "Nonsense! Nonsense! We paid our rent in advance, didn't we? We agreed on the date? Well, what else is there to understand? Help me in with these suitcases. My wife and daughter are tired. We'd like to go upstairs at once."

Buff was unconscious that she had seized Tim's arm in a vise-like grip.

"He's done it again," she whispered. "He's rented the ranch again."

He answered her thoughtfully. "Sure enough, my month is up tomorrow. He must have dated them at the same time he put the advertisement in the Denver paper." A rare sound broke upon the air. Tim was chuckling. "Able man, Atkins! Shall we go down and deal with him, Buff?"

A BAD CONSCIENCE

By Frank H. Beck

How Many is a Billion?

One thousand million is correct—and as incomprehensible as the distance to the nearest star. To count ONE BILLION at a speed of 100 per minute for every eight hours working day and six days a week will take 68 years for one person to complete the job.

A United States silver dollar is the best known unit of size and value to use in attempting to demonstrate the magnitude of a billion by visualizing what might be done with a billion silver dollars, each a 1/2 inch circle, 10 to one inch, 17 to one pound.

ONE BILLION silver dollars stacked up would stand 1,578 miles high, will weigh 29,400 tons and more than fill a room 50 feet square and high, 34,000 new silver dollars will make one ton.

Eight silver dollars laid flat in a line will equal one foot; 42,240 silver dollars will equal one mile (5,280 feet).

ONE BILLION silver dollars strung out ribbon-like in a single straight line will extend 23,674 miles or 95 per cent of the distance around the earth (24,902 miles).

ONE BILLION silver dollars laid flat carpet-like will cover 358 acres. One acre is only 43,560 square feet.

Incidentally, to illustrate the magnitude of a national debt of 40 BILLION DOLLARS ($320.00 for each one of the 125 million population) visualize a string of silver dollars a million miles long that would extend 35 times around the earth, will weigh more than one million tons and will cover a flat surface of 22 1/2 miles.

For one person to count 40 BILLION silver dollars, would take from 750 B. C. to 1440 A. D.

Speaker—Can I ask my ideas? Listener—If you'd keep the words out of your mouth you wouldn't have to ask them so much, my good friend.

It is normal for summer to be hot. Normal people should not be unduly annoyed thereby.

Monter—I can't help thinking that Mabel would be happier if she married a man with less money than Mr. Parkinson.

Patner—Don't you worry. He'll soon have less if I know Mabel.

Hay fever victims have something to look forward to with hopefulness—the first frost. After the first frost, they can settle down and look forward to the latter part of next August, but not hopefully.

Earth flew in all directions as the crimson-faced would-be golfer attempted to strike the ball.

Would-be Golfer (blushing out to caddy)—My word, the worms will think there's an earthquake.

Caddy—I don't know, the worms around here are crafty.

I'll bet most of them are hiding under the ball for safety.

A good listener is usually thinking about something else.

Policeman—Let me take you home, lady. You're right.

Lady—Not on your life, big boy. I may be tight but I'm not loose.

The State Education Department now has its own theater in Albany. Located in the basement of the Education building, the soundproof theater seats 19 persons and will be used as an initial step in the field of motion picture education.

Scout Campaign Plans Outlined

The regular monthly meeting of the Ulster-Greene Council Executive Board was held Friday evening at Judge's Restaurant on Albany avenue. The business session followed a dinner and the board voted to hold the annual finance campaign for the districts outside Kingston from October 9 to 16 and the Kingston district from October 16 to 23.

This year's goal is $9,000 to be spent according to the 1939 budget. Sidney Clapp, scout commissioner, gave an interesting report of scout activities which he was privileged to see in his visit to the west coast this summer. He mentioned a camporee held at Oakland, Cal., with 1,600 scouts in attendance and a round up of the scouts of Salt Lake City.

The scout executive reported a continued growth with a total of 907 scouts in 48 troops and six new troops being organized this fall. The executive reported the activities of the operation of Camp Halfmoon and read the camp director's report, which gave a fine picture of the work which was done by him and his staff this past summer. While the enrollment was slightly under that of last year there was more advancement work done and the spirit and morale was fine. The board accepted with regret the resignation of O. R. Hillibrant, chairman of the organization committee for the council, as he has done outstanding work during the past year to organize new troops in the council. Under his leadership there have been seven new troops organized and with the others in process the objective of 15 new troops for the year should be reached.

The following is the budget for the year:

Executive Salary	$2,900
Office Salary	1,000
Rent	300
Phone	175
Insurance	250
Office Supplies	185
Postage	185
Transportation	750
Leadership Training and Conferences	100
National Quota and Charter Fee	250
Awards	250
Interest on Note	96
Camping	350
Camporee and Rallies	110
Miscellaneous	50
Campaign Costs	400
Retirement Fund	215
Operating Total	$7,381
Payment on Old Debts	1,619
Grand Total	$9,000

To Resume Meeting
Meetings of the Men's Club of the First Reformed Church will be resumed Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock. The following committee will be in charge for the evening: Ralph Forsyth, chairman; William A. Frey, Harry S. Ensign, Dr. E. E. Billings, Hamilton Boyd, Dr. W. J. Cranstoun, Ralph Clearwater, Harry L. Edson, Harry duBois, Frey, and Arthur E. Fronfield. Refreshments will be served and a full attendance desired. The annual ministers conference of the Reformed Church will be held in New Brunswick, N. J., Monday and Tuesday of next week. It is expected that a number of pastors from the Rondout valley and other parts of the county will attend.

Lions Will Hold Meeting Tonight

The Kingston Lions Club will hold its first fall meeting this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The meeting has been designated as "president's night" and will be dedicated to President Charlie Gradwell. The Rev. Maurice Denham, who has just returned from a vacation in Maine, will be in charge.

This is the official opening of the fall season and all members are urged to attend this meeting and start the fall activities off with a big meeting.

The Lions-Kiwanis softball game date has been changed to Thursday evening, September 21, at Forsyth Park when the Lions and Kiwanians and their ladies will make it a "ladies' night." There will be refreshments served after the game. Kiwanis took the first game of the series but the Lions are planning to even up the series September 21.

Pennsylvania Is Rich

In Colonial Era Data
Pennsylvania is rich in historical associations that date from earliest colonial times. Fort Necessity National Battlefield site, administered by the National Park Service, memorializes a battle in which George Washington, then a major of the Virginia militia, met defeat at the hands of the French and Indians.

Washington, advancing upon the French forts in western Pennsylvania with a force of 300 men, learned that a large detachment of the French was approaching. Hastily throwing up crude entrenchments which he grimly called Fort Necessity, he awaited the superior forces.

For nine hours the French and their Indian allies unrelentingly attacked the makeshift fort. Then a parley was called, as a result of which Washington with his little garrison was permitted to retreat, on condition that he surrender the prisoners he had previously taken.

French Stamp Issue

Issuance by France of stamps in honor of the Liege Water Exhibition proved a riddle until officially explained by the Paris postal authorities. The stamps show a picture of the building that houses the hydraulic pumping machinery at Marly, on the Seine. The explanation is that the machinery was built by a native of Liege, Belgium, Louis Rene Sautem, formerly known as Renniequin. When Louis XIV ordered the palace at Versailles built and instructed his engineers to supply water for fountains on the waste land none of them could solve the problem. Renniequin, experienced in pumping water out of mines, constructed machinery to prove himself indispensable and was called back to a permanent job.

Salton Sea of California

The Salton sea is a brackish lake in the central depression of the Colorado desert in southeastern California. Prior to 1905, it was a salt marsh interspersed with shallow saline ponds and lakes, covering an area about 30 miles long and 12 miles wide, with the surface lying about 280 feet below sea level. In 1905 and 1906, by an accidental inflow of water from the Colorado river, through defective irrigation canals this watery marsh expanded into a lake 40 miles long, from 10 to 16 miles wide and 90 feet deep. After the inflow of water was stopped in 1907, the lake receded as a result of evaporation and by 1920 covered only 265 square miles.

Rough Treatment

The quick thinking of Patrolman Charles Kolesar of Cleveland, Ohio, probably saved the life of his mate, Patrolman Clarence Smith, during a raid on a marihuana den. A gas flame ignited Smith's alcohol-saturated clothing after a woman tenant had hurled a bottle of alcohol at him. Kolesar smashed him out, then dragged Smith in an adjoining bedroom and smothered the flames with a mattress.

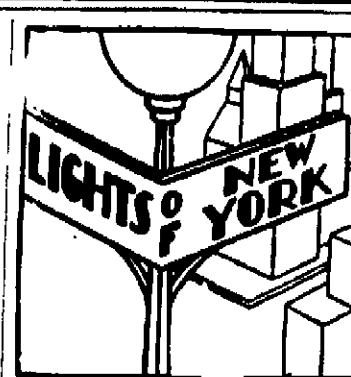

Kingston Guernsey Makes Good at World's Fair

Maple Lane Africaner's Marilyn, the Guernsey whose picture is shown above, is gaining fame for herself and honor for her owners, A. H. Chambers, Kingston, in the Borden Dairy World of Tomorrow at the New York World's Fair.

This cow is one of the herd of 150 fine purebreds from dairy farms throughout the United States and Canada on display at the Fair. The June and July average milk production records, for 150 cows, of 47.9 and 44.5 pounds of milk per cow per day, and per cow averages of 60 and 55 pounds of butterfat for each of the two months, so far as is known have never been approached by any herd of the size made up of cows of the five major dairy breeds.

The record-making Dairy World of Tomorrow herd is composed of 30 representative cows of each of the Ayrshires, Brown Swisses, Guernseys, Holstein-Friesians and Jerseys. A representative bull and representative calves of each breed also are on display at the Borden Dairy World of Tomorrow.

War between the police and New York's army of peddlers is never-ending. Peddlers are licensed by the city. But there are certain districts which the law says they must not invade. Also there are those who would peddle without a license. All are men out to make a living. Nonpayment of license fees means more profits. So do excursions into forbidden territory. Competition is less keen there. The police are charged with the duty of enforcing the law. Hence many peddlers are escorted to police stations and from there to a magistrate's court. Sometimes the street in front of the old Forty-seventh street station, in the heart of the Tenderloin, resembles a section of the lower East Side. That's because so many pushcart peddlers have run afoul of the law. While they are inside, their stocks remain outside. That isn't so good for perishables. It's all the worse because usually the peddlers haven't $2 for a fine so they go to jail for a day.

At this season, the beaches are one of the main battle fronts between the law and prohibited commerce. Peddlers are forbidden to do business on the beaches. Refuse from their wares clutters up the sands. Also concessionaires, who have paid real money for their locations, object to the intruders. Bathing and sun bathing rather favor the peddlers. But that makes no difference to the police. Usually, rather than make arrests, the police merely chase the peddlers. When the coast seems clear, the peddlers return. Thus, perpetual motion of a sort. If the peddlers don't get caught, they may make a fair day's wage. If they do get caught, they sit behind bars for a day. That's hard for ice-cream salesmen. The cops don't object to men making a living. But they have to obey orders.

Recently an ice-cream peddler at Orchard beach thought he could outsmart the law. When he saw an officer bearing down on him, he jumped into a boat, thumbed his nose and picked up the oars. The cop commandeered another boat and proved to be the better oarsman. So the peddler spent a day in jail. The matter wasn't to end there, however. The next day, a whole fleet of boats with outboard motors waited within the life lines. It looked as if the peddlers had scored a point. But as usual, they lost out. The policemen merely telephoned for a police launch—and police launches are fast. Peddling at Orchard beach isn't popular or profitable just now.

Many New York cigarette smokers are rolling their own at present. The three-cent tax is the cause. Last year, the city imposed a cent package tax to raise funds for relief purposes. The penny tax brought in about $7,000,000. The tax didn't work any hardship on smokers since most tobacco dealers absorbed it. But the state legislature, at the last session couldn't let such a golden opportunity pass. So a tax of two cents a package was slapped on. When that took effect, prices of cigarettes jumped three cents a pack. Dealers in New York city complained that their business would be ruined unless the city knocked off its tax. No action was taken, however.

The result was a decrease in cigarette business in New York and a big increase over in New Jersey. On cigarettes in that state, there is only one tax, the internal revenue levy. Stores advertised postage-paid bargains in New York newspapers. Roadside stands sprang up along all roads leading to the city. Trucks stopped at vantage points and drivers peddled cigarettes. Filling stations also added stocks. A crimp was put into the roadside business by the law, however. Federal law requires that each tobacco seller must register with the collector of internal revenue and post a $500 bond. Then there is a state law which prohibits the vending of tickets or goods on a highway.

Commuters, especially those who drive to work, bring in hundreds of cartons daily. Some increase their earnings in that manner. Most of the bootlegging, however, is done merely as a favor. In many offices, Jersey residents keep their fellow workers supplied with tax-free smokes. (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

RIGHT AGAIN, MR. CHURCHILL!

ADVENTURER: The 23-year-old Churchill battles in India. He fought also in the Sudan and South Africa.

WAR-TIME LEADER: Churchill rides with General Pershing in London shortly after the World war.

AUTHOR: In a score of books he tells about his wars, travels, jobs, ancestors.

POLITICIAN: He has been in public life ever since 1900.

By The AP Feature Service
As far back as 1935, Winston Churchill was warning against German rearmament, urging the nations to unite against aggression, begging Britain to prepare herself for the worst.

He was pretty much of a voice crying in the wilderness.

But now the doughty warrior, keen-witted statesman and prolific author has been called into Britain's war cabinet as first lord of the admiralty—and once again he is in a position to boast, "I told you so."

He held the same job in 1911-15, building up the navy against the threat of Kaiser Wilhelm's new fleet. And because he saw what was coming, British men-of-war were at their stations when the conflict broke, and the German fleet was bottled up. He was credited with developing speedier warships and introducing tanks.

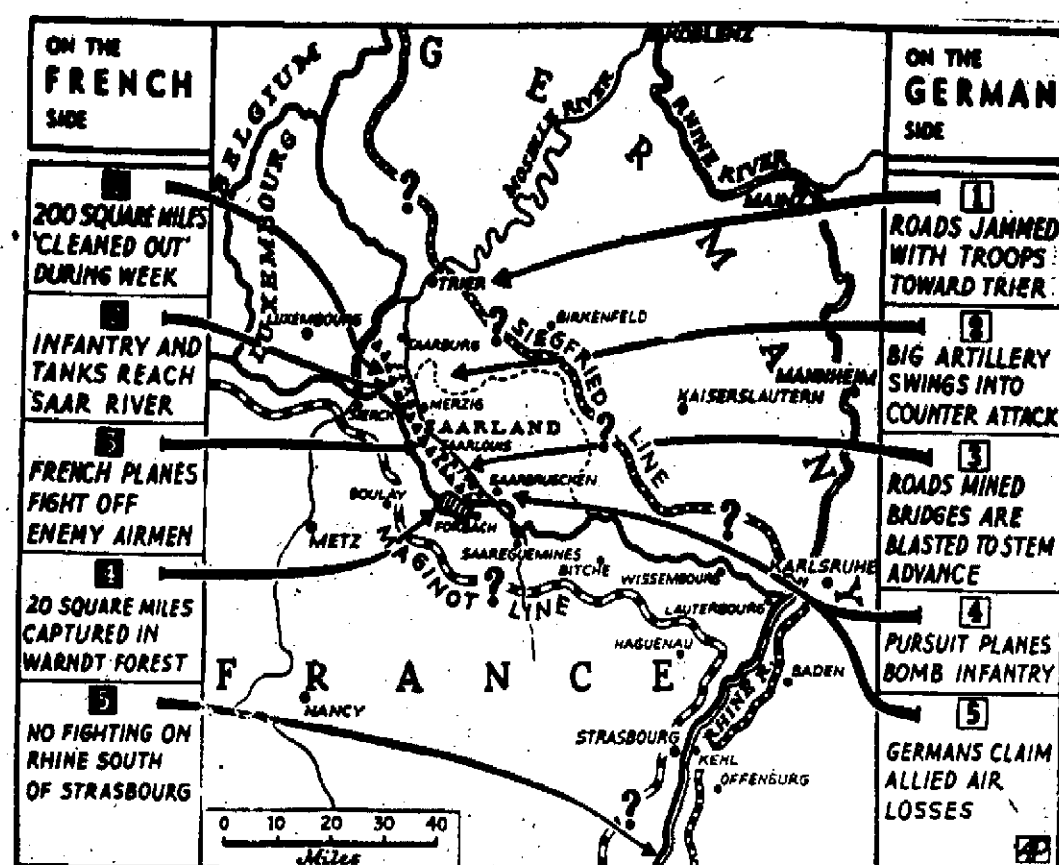

It was he, too, who pushed the attempt to break through the Dardanelles, Turkish-defended gateway to the Black sea. It was a brilliant plan, but it failed disastrously, probably because his advice wasn't followed soon enough. Thereupon he resigned and went to the trenches. But he held one cabinet post or another most of the time from 1917 to 1929, and always has been active in politics.

The puckish, devil-may-care Churchill, whose mother was an American, was mentioned for Prime Minister Baldwin's job in 1935—and his championship of King Edward in the abdication crisis may have been one big reason why he did not get it. Others, perhaps, were his dislike for precedent and his refusal to pull punches even when the welfare of his own party was concerned.

But no one ever questioned his courage or his ability to get things done. And Englishmen cheered when the 65-year-old "Winnie" stepped into his old job at the outbreak of another great war.

GERMAN GUNS ROAR IN COUNTER ATTACK

This was the situation after a week of fighting on the western front, as described in Paris. French observers declared that France's troops held about 200 square miles of German soil—to which the Germans replied with a roaring counter attack. Germans hammered at the northern flank of the front, near Saarburg, here the greatest French advance have taken place. A French communique said French troops are advancing on a 20-mile sector east of the Saar river where it cuts across the French frontier (near Blitche).

OIL BURNERS

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN

Paris, Sept. 11 (AP)—The heavily entrenched French and German armies struck at opposite ends of a 100-mile sector between the Rhine and Moselle rivers today as the western front seesawed back and forth.

The morning communique from the French general staff announced the front was generally quiet during the night, but that French troops had succeeded in making one "local advance" under cover of darkness.

Their new zone of attack was on the eastern end of a line from the plateau of Blies down into Germany's Palatinate area, between the little Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

Communique No. 15 for the morning of September 11, issued by the French War Ministry, said: "The night was calm throughout. Our troops were able to effect a local advance."

The German counterattacks, which the French were reported to be holding off with bayonets, were directed against the western end of the line from the Saar Basin, where French troops staged their first advance.

Action generally appeared to be gaining in intensity. Identity of the forces involved remained a military secret, but it was understood the French division mentioned in a communique on Saturday for a "brilliant advance" was a famous World War I infantry unit.

It was believed that by now the British expeditionary force also had time to take battle positions. Operations, which were confined largely to contact by advance guards on both sides during the first week of the war, were reported to be involving reinforced bodies of troops as the second week of the campaign was launched.

Wisconsin Excavators Uncover Coral Fossils In an Indian grave near Racine, Wis., excavators found an odd-shaped stone. Though not shaped for any use, it must have been precious to the early chief with whose spears and arrows it was buried.

That stone was a fossil coral mass that lived in a late Devonian sea 300,000,000 years ago, writes Carroll Lane Fenton in Nature Magazine. It was a home of clustered, translucent polyps whose bases built it up in lacy details that were revealed when the fossil was polished.

Though discovered in a Wisconsin mound, both its species and its preservation show that this coral originally came from a hillside in northern Iowa.

That Iowa hillside is rich in corals of a long-vanished sea. There also are banks of fossil sponges and countless thousands of early shells. Farmers turn corals up with their plows; sponge banks are blasted, crushed into bits and burned to form the cement from which buildings and pavements are made. Roads built from fossils often cross streams whose beds are filled with corals, sponges and shells weathered from near-by beds of stone.

The richest fossil beds are shales that weather into yellowish clay. There the Indian's coral is found, along with many that are shaped like horns. Each horn matches a single pit on the specimen from the old chief's grave; at its top we find a deep, ribbed cup in which the delicate polyp sat with its tentacles stretched forth in search of food.

On the sides of the "horns" many animals lived, just as they live on corals today. There were worms with tubes like tiny snails, from which red plumes appeared when nothing was near to cause alarm. Delicate structures that looked like moss were the homes of branching bryozoans—creatures whose closest cousins were shells living on the mud near by. Indeed, some shells come closer than that, cementing themselves to the coral masses among their tiny relatives. Corals, in turn, grew upon shells; for they had to have a solid base on which to begin their curving horns. How they managed to keep upright, even then, is a problem no one has solved.

WARSAW HOME WRECKED BY WAR

Shattered by one of the repeated German bomb attacks on the Polish capital this was a suburban home near Warsaw. Note the household goods strewn in the foreground of the picture, which was transmitted from London to New York by cable. Nazis at first claimed their troops were in Warsaw, but hours later the Polish radio described a mighty battle for the city and pleaded for all Poles to dig in and beat off the attack "to the last drop of blood."

Beacons Gleam Adown History

Gulf Lights See Commerce Of World Pass For More Than 200 Years.

NEW ORLEANS—Fort Boulaye, sprawling on the mud banks of Southeast pass at the mouth of the Mississippi river, has watched the commerce of the world pass up and down the mighty stream for more than 200 years.

Fort Boulaye is not a fort, but one of the first lighthouses erected in North America. The tower, 62 feet high, was built in 1781 by Adrien de Pauger, engineer of the French colony of Louisiana—five years after the famous Boston light was constructed.

When British ships moved up the river bearing General Packenham's redcoats to their defeat at Chalmette in the War of 1812, lookouts spotted the markers along the river banks—crude devices telling skipper where the danger spots were located.

Hazards were marked along the gulf coast at spots where now stand Biloxi, Miss.; Pensacola, Fla.; and Mobile, Ala., by seafarers long before the Declaration of Independence was signed.

Service Taken Over by U. S. As the southern portion of the country gradually was absorbed by the youthful republic, lighthouse facilities were taken over by the lighthouse service, a governmental department established by the first congress in 1789 under the signature of President Washington.

After 150 years of successful administration, the lighthouse service has moved out—its place taken by the coast guard under President Roosevelt's governmental reorganization orders.

Warning beacons along the Mississippi river, Lake Pontchartrain and along the gulf have kept pace with the growth of ocean commerce to southern ports.

The first lighthouse built by the United States government in Louisiana was at Bayou St. John on Lake Pontchartrain in 1811, the year of the state's admission to the Union. By 1823, increased ocean-going commerce had made necessary the construction of a tower at Northeast pass at the mouth of the river.

Coast Cities Included.

Gulf coast cities also were getting lighthouses. An entrance light was built at Mobile in 1822 and at Pensacola in 1825.

Both South pass and Southwest pass of the Mississippi river were marked with lights in 1831 when Northeast pass began to shoal. More than 400 miles of Texas coastline were marked following that state's entry into the Union in 1845. The first lights were placed on Galveston reef in 1850 and at Bolivar point and Matagorda in 1852.

Between 1860 and 1870, however, many of the lights were extinguished, but following the reconstruction period in the South, they again were placed in operation.

This progress has continued until today. In the eighth district, which includes New Orleans and the Mississippi river as far north as Baton Rouge and from the Sewanee river in Florida to the Rio Grande in Texas, there are more than 750 lighted aids to navigation and more than 1,130 unlighted aids. There also are several radio beacons maintained in the district.

St. Peter's Holy Name Meeting

St. Peter's Holy Name Society will resume regular monthly meetings this evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the first meeting since June at which time it was voted to halt the regular sessions for the summer.

The Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, spiritual director of the organization, urges all members to attend. Many matters of importance have arisen, especially the Holy Name Rally to be held October 1. Men of St. Peter's, who have not as yet joined the society, may do so at the meeting this evening.

A good program of sound films has been secured and the usual refreshments will be served.

Leave the Island

Britain Intensifies Her Naval and Economic War

London, Sept. 11 (AP)—Great Britain intensified her naval and economic warfare against Germany today, having last 12 merchantmen in the first eight days of what the cabinet regards as a war that will last at least three years.

Public opinion also seemed inclined toward preparations for a long war and scorned what were presumed to be German intentions of offering peace after a lightning conquest of Poland.

The press almost unanimously backed up the cabinet's decision to base its policy on the premise of a three-year war, regarding the announcement as Britain's "withering" answer to a "peace feeler" in German Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's speech Saturday.

Furthermore, dispatches indicated the final blows against Poland were not imminent. War correspondents, whose reports say are beginning to reach England, stressed Poland's army still is intact, and that withdrawal always has been part of the Polish plans.

The 12th British ship sent to the bottom was the 6,840-ton Magdalen. The ministry of information announced her sinking last night with an undisclosed number of casualties, but did not announce how or where she was sunk.

The 2,796-ton Goodwood was reported by the British Press Association yesterday to have been sunk in the North Sea, and the information ministry added the name of the 4,086-ton Rio Claro, sunk Wednesday, to the official list.

A fishing vessel was said to have rescued the crew of the Goodwood, many of whom were reported hurt. The crew of the Rio Claro was said to have been landed in the Azores by a Netherlands vessel.

The government's answer was twofold. It swung into an "unrelenting" campaign of "attacks and counter-measures," and secondly, extended machinery for its "contraband control" through stations in Gibraltar and Alexandria, at both ends of the Mediterranean, and on Ceylon in the Indian Ocean.

No details were given in a laconic communique which said "it appears that German submarines are now operating far afield." But the ministry of information said the admiralty had received numerous reports of operations against German submarines and "probably some have been successful."

The admiralty reported Britain's navy "particularly busy in waters about the British Isles and the Atlantic." It mentioned "possible success" against one submarine minelayer, but no definite results were given for flotillas of destroyers the ministry said are active.

"While we have incurred the loss of various merchant ships through submarine operations," the admiralty declared, "many more enemy merchantmen have been captured or sunk or driven to take refuge in neutral harbors in many parts of the world."

It added a convoy system soon would be operating "with the result that U-boat sinkings will tend to decrease."

The government still was concealing its military program, confining most communique to naval and aerial operations and civil defense.

The information ministry told the nation last night the Polish army had shown "no sign" of crumbling under German pressure in the east.

Despite the amassing of 70 German divisions, against Poland by Goering's own statement, the announcement said, Poland's army "has carried out its withdrawal in an orderly manner and with a steadiness which must excite admiration."

The Times of London called Goering's speech "clumsy and rather uneasy." It charged he "aimed at gulling the western powers into a dishonorable peace after the consummation of the crime against Poland."

The government's long-range policy, the Telegraph said, was a "withering answer" to Goering's boast that the war in Poland would end in four weeks.

would be operating "with the result that U-boat sinkings will tend to decrease."

The government still was concealing its military program, confining most communique to naval and aerial operations and civil defense.

The information ministry told the nation last night the Polish army had shown "no sign" of crumbling under German pressure in the east.

Despite the amassing of 70 German divisions, against Poland by Goering's own statement, the announcement said, Poland's army "has carried out its withdrawal in an orderly manner and with a steadiness which must excite admiration."

The Times of London called Goering's speech "clumsy and rather uneasy." It charged he "aimed at gulling the western powers into a dishonorable peace after the consummation of the crime against Poland."

The government's long-range policy, the Telegraph said, was a "withering answer" to Goering's boast that the war in Poland would end in four weeks.

To Attend Conference

Miss Anna A. Van Deusen of West Chestnut street and James McClenahan of Chapel street, members of the Young People's Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, will represent Kingston at the ninth annual conference of the North River Youth Presbytery at Camp Sloane, Lakeville, Conn. The young people will leave Kingston on Friday afternoon for Camp Sloane and will return on Sunday afternoon.

FOOTBALL FORECASTS

Vols Are Still Tops in the Southeast

GEORGE CAFEGO
Cafego's a Vol veteran, Nelson is 'Bama's hope

Atlanta (AP)—Tennessee's undefeated champions of the Southeastern Conference are "on the spot." The Vols are not favorites to continue their football sweep this fall, but the sideline experts note the strengthening of other first-flight eleven.

Major Bob Neyland has a man-power, a veteran backfield and a line which will be minus only two regulars and two other top-notch players who helped lead the Vols to 1938's clean sweep. That drive included an Orange Bowl victory over previously unbeaten Oklahoma, Bix Six champion.

Coaches pick Tennessee to repeat chiefly because of Tailback George Cafego, the twisting spearhead of an attack which rolled up 300 points against two touchdowns and a field goal last year. He'll still have the great blocking of Sam Bartholomew and Len Coffman, backs, and the help of a speedy line that includes four juniors. With reserves three deep, the Vols shouldn't greatly miss Bowden Wyatt and George Huner at the flanks.

Tennessee does not meet Tulane, ranked No. 2, but the Vols must face the next four top-rated teams—Alabama, Louisiana State, Auburn and Vanderbilt. Soft spots come between each, however. Tulane supporters expect their most powerful team since the Rose Bowl edition in 1931. Youthful Coach Red Dawson, after three years of experimenting, has prospects of a big, hard-hitting team, with a fast backfield. Cagay Paul Krueger will direct the attack and Bob Kellogg, a hard-running junior who punts and passes accurately, is expected to be the No. 1 attack threat. Kellogg also is deadly in field goal kicking. The Green Wave lost four regulars, including two halfbacks, but Coach Dawson has a great sophomore prospect coming up in Bob Glass.

New Strength at 'Bama
Alabama, which finished in a tie with Tulane last season, is building its hopes of a stronger eleven on an untried halfback, Jimmy Nelson. The rangy Florida sophomore is already being compared with the great Dixie Howell as a punter and runner. The Crimson Tide appears to be set for a good line except for question marks at guards, but able successors to a pair of departed backs must be found. Coach Frank

Thomas expects Walter Merrill and Fred Davis to be conference standouts at tackle. Auburn must replace seven good players to improve its seventh-place ranking in the field of 13 last year. The Plainsmen are hoping for a comeback by little George Kenmore, a flaming halfback who was out of 1938 action with a trick knee. He can run, punt and pass. Milton Howell is a superb guard.

Coach Ray Morrison's aerial circus may finally reach its heights at Vanderbilt, with four fine passers in Red Marshall, Boy Higgins, Junius Plunkett and a new back, Charlton Davis. Marshall, a mighty midget, will lead the climax attack unless a trick knee falls him. Maurice Holdgraf, 220-pound junior tackle, was a sen-

Australians Won't Play Each Other

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—The word has gotten around, privately, that the two young Australians, Davis Cup heroes, Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, are in a humor to make a mess of the final stages of the National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills.

The tournament committee pulled a prize boner in placing the two top foreign stars in the same half of the draw, where one is bound to eliminate the other in the semi-finals. They are feeling very "ornery" about it. They have threatened not to play the match, but to toss for it and let the winner go into the final—doubtless against Bobby Riggs.

Nobody except Quist and Bromwich know exactly how serious they are in their intention, and they aren't saying anything. This is inside stuff. But the officials are afraid the boys aren't fooling. Riggs apparently faces no real tough opposition in his half of the draw, unless Bryan Grant, Jr., or Frank Guernsey, Jr., should get exceptionally hot. He is the one the Australians are gunning for, and they don't like the idea of wearing each other down for his benefit.

They have pointed out, in all truth, that in Australia and at Wimbledon the two big men of another nation always are placed in opposite halves of the draw. But the committee made the sad mistake of seeding Franjo Puncer of Yugoslavia second and offering him as opposition to Riggs in the upper half. He got knocked off by Guernsey the opening day. Today the tournament was due to limp through another bit-tailed program, completing the third round of men's play and the second round of women's competition. Half of each round was played before a skimpy crowd yesterday, with Jack Crawford of Australia the only seeded casualty. He fell before Joe Hunt of Annapolis, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Grippe Predicts Kayo for Bettina

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11 (AP)—Jimmy Grippe, manager of Mello Bettina, who will try to regain his light heavyweight title from Billy Conn here Sept. 25, predicted today that the Beacon, N. Y., boxer would "win by a knockout" Bettina pitched his training camp here today.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)
Three weeks before major league baseball is "blackened out" for 1939, pennant panic has gripped the National League again.

The Cincinnati Reds are barely hanging onto their lead, three games in front of the St. Louis Cardinals. A lot of people are wondering what difference it makes which team totters into the World Series opposite the New York Yankees, who now are 17½ games in front of their closest pursuers.

National League	Won	Lost	Game	G to

American League	Won	Lost	Game	G to
New York	96	38	21
Boston	78	55	17½	21
Chicago	76	58	20

All the clubs below third place in the junior circuit already have been eliminated mathematically. The White Sox are "dormie," needing to win all the Yankees to lose all for a tie. This leaves the chase up to the Red Sox, who probably will be eliminated this week.

In contrast, the only club positively out of the National League dissension is Philadelphia. Since September 1, the Reds have played mere 500 ball, winning five, losing five and tying one. The Cardinals have crept closer by winning eight, losing three and tying one. The Cubs seem to have given up the ghost, losing seven of eleven, but the Dodgers have popped into the picture by winning nine of 13—the last six victories in a row.

half step closer by sweeping a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-3 and 11-4. The first game also was the 20th triumph for Curt Davis.

The Dodgers moved within a half game of third place on an 8-4 victory over the New York Giants. The Phillies were rained out at Boston.

New York's Yankees ran their latest winning streak to eight games by beating the Washington Senators, 4-3 and 6-2. In the second game, they collected four homers, two by Bill Dickey, to bring the team total to 151.

The Red Sox broke a six-game losing string with 10-7 and 5-1 triumphs over the Philadelphia Athletics as Ted Williams went on a spree with two homers, two triples and a single.

Cleveland divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns, winning the first, 15-5, and dropping the second, 5-4.

Johnny Rigney's personal 11-game winning streak was ended as Buck Newsom hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the White Sox, but Chicago came back to capture the nightcap, 11-9.

Driving Charge Brings $50 Fine

George Depew, 37, a negro, of Route 3, Kingston, was fined $50 and his driving license revoked when arraigned this morning before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court, charged with being a hit and run driver.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon Depew was accused of colliding with the parked truck owned by Benjamin Greenspan. The truck was parked on Ann street, near East Union street.

Depew was accused of failing to stop and furnishing his name and address, and that after his car had struck the truck he backed down Ann street and drove away, and was later located by the police in Ponckhockie.

James Kiernan, 31, of 38 Beel street, and Theodore Hinley, 33, of 52 Ann street, charged with disorderly conduct in staging a fist fight on Hasbrouck avenue, near Murray street, on Sunday afternoon, were sentenced to two days each in the county jail.

Ernest Lindroth, 33, of 332 Boulevard, charged with disorderly conduct, in refusing to move on when ordered to do so by a police officer on Sunday morning on Railroad avenue, was given a suspended sentence as this was the first time he had ever been arrested.

Farmhand Reports Robbery to Police

Ross Miller, a Kerhonkson farm hand, reported to the police department shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning that he had been slugged and robbed of $25 on North street. He furnished the police with a description of his assailants, two negroes, for whom the police are searching.

According to Miller's story to the police, he was on West Street Saturday night, where he was drinking and met the two negroes. He said that they offered to drive him back to the farm where he was employed, if he would agree to purchase the gasoline for the automobile.

Miller said he agreed and they started for Kerhonkson, going by way of North street. They had driven a short distance on that street when Miller claimed the negroes stopped the car, made him alight, and then blackjacked him. He fell unconscious to the ground and was robbed of his roll, consisting of $25 in bills.

Miller said he was employed on the Percy Booth farm at Kerhonkson.

Mountain Climbing Is Perilous Sport

U.S. Has Many High Peaks
To Tempt Daring.

WASHINGTON.—Tragedy rode an avalanche down Mount Baker recently, and six of a party of 25 mountain climbers were killed. Such loss of life is rare in the United States, although less unusual in the Alps where mountain climbing was developed as a sport.

"Switzerland has more than 50 peaks higher than the highest mountain top in the United States, Mount Whitney," says the National Geographic society. "A plane flying over Switzerland at an altitude of 15,000 feet would find at least half a hundred peaks to dodge."

"In the United States, the plane could drop to 14,000 feet and encounter about 60 named and measured mountains shouldering their way above the clouds. The United States, however, has more than a thousand peaks of the stature of, or higher than, Mount Baker, (Washington) where the recent climbing party ended in tragedy."

"These less lofty mountains, with the advantage of accessibility, are luring American sportsmen to exercise their Swiss mountain-climbing technique on native steep. Climbing is a popular pursuit especially in California's Sierra Nevada, Colorado's Rockies, Washington's Cascade range, and in the East, the White mountains of New Hampshire. In these and several other states American sportsmen pursue the climber's thrill, the thin air burdened with dust and fumes of lower altitudes, the cold quiet, the feeling of mastery that comes from victory in the primitive man-vs.-mountain struggle."

"Among the 'Little Switzerland' of the United States, Colorado has the greatest number of giant peaks, mainly along the continental divide. This state has more than three-fourths of the country's mountains measuring 14,000 feet or higher, of which five dozen are known. California, reaching its peak in the country's highest, Mount Whitney, (14,950), has one dozen."

"Mount Rainier is Washington's only peak in the super-giant class. The tip top of the White mountains in New Hampshire is Mount Washington, a mere 6,288 feet."

Mme. Chiang's Protege Studies at Wellesley

WELLESLEY, MASS.—Countrywoman of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and, like Mme. Chiang, a student of Wellesley college, Mollie Sah has come halfway around the world to study and to win recognition for high academic achievement. Recently Miss Sah was named a Wellesley college scholar, second highest honor rating conferred by the college.

After two years at Yenching university, Wellesley's "sister college" in China, she transferred first to Marist junior college in Connecticut and then to Wellesley, where she is majoring in art.

"I have always wanted to teach art to the Chinese people who have so little opportunity to develop their artistic tendencies," she said.

His Luck Held as Judge Dealt Out Penalty Hand

DAYTON, OHIO.—Charged before Judge Merritt Schlafman in police court with promoting a game of chance, Arthur Chenuault, 44, of Cincinnati, was asked by the court to explain the game. Judge Schlafman was not satisfied with the three cards Chenuault used in his explanation of three card monte, and supplemented his own cards.

They were slips of paper bearing respectively these words: $50 and costs, suspended; $50 and costs, $25 suspended; 10 days in the workhouse. Chenuault, after shuffling the cards, drew his freedom. He had drawn the card with the first inscription.

Special X-Ray Permits More Precise Pictures

LONDON.—A new type of X-ray apparatus, called the Tomograph, is being used to treat old war wounds at Queen Mary's hospital. The machine is unique in that its rays will focus on a section of the body at any depth from the surface and photograph it leaving out anything above and below.

It not only reveals the presence of a bullet or piece of shrapnel, but the condition of the surrounding tissues. The knowledge of whether a foreign object lies clear or in a hidden sinus is extremely important in operating technique.

Given Ten Days in Jail

Robert F. Fulton, 30, 103 Boerum Place, Brooklyn, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail last evening by Justice of the Peace John Rusk, Jr., of Marlborough, for reckless driving. Arrested by Sergeant E. J. Hulse and State Trooper L. Baker, Fulton was given a choice of paying a $15 fine or spending 10 days in jail. He took the jail sentence.

Theft of 21 Suits at Montgomery Ward's

Saturday afternoon the Montgomery Ward store manager called up police headquarters and reported the theft of 21 suits of men's clothing from the store. The theft had occurred some time between Wednesday and Saturday.

Five of the suits were valued at $19.75 each, and the other 16 suits at $24.95 each. The suit sizes ran from 38 to 42.

Special Service At Minnewaska Attended by 150

Despite adverse weather conditions approximately 150 people gathered at Minnewaska Sunday evening to participate in the sixth annual vesper service held by the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union.

The service, which is usually held on the lawn of the Cliff House, was transferred to the recreation room of the larger of the Minnewaska houses, Wildmere. Here, at 7 o'clock, a short song service introduced the program of the vesper service. The three sons of Captain and Mrs. Soller of the Salvation Army, accompanied by their mother at the organ, were the feature of the musical part of the program.

Henry P. Eighmey, president of the county union, introduced the Rev. Russell Damstra, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, as the speaker for this service. Speaking on the subject of "Sound of the Trumpets," the Kingston minister cast aside the idea that young people of today are of the "lost generation," pointing out that there was plenty of opportunity for work for those who would seek for it in the right way.

He illustrated his topic with references to various well-known figures in national and international life who had "heard the sound of the trumpets and had heeded them," explaining that the title which he had chosen for his address was another way of labeling opportunity when it presented itself.

The Rev. Mr. Damstra emphasized the greater possibilities open to people who heeded the "sound of the trumpets" when they were young, although he made it evident that older people could also benefit when the call came which could be the guide for their future life. The speaker closed his address with the plea for young people especially to pause for a moment on the pathway of life in order to ask themselves the question as to what "God would have them do," and then seek with determination to fulfill that which is revealed to them—to listen to the "sound of the trumpets."

It was announced at this service that the annual convention of the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union would be held at Woodstock on Saturday, October 7, beginning at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and closing in the evening with an address by the Rev. Robert Searle of New York.

Downtown Market Was Among Oldest

With the final closing of the doors of Weber's butcher shop at Broadway and Abel street last week, there ends the story of one of the oldest retail butcher shops in Kingston, where several generations of Kingston families have purchased their meats during the 80 or more years that the business had been established.

The meat market was established over three-quarters of a century ago by the late John Weber, who built up one of the largest retail businesses in the lower section of Kingston. At his death the business was carried on by the late Edward Weber, who died several years ago.

Since the death of Mr. Weber, the business had been carried on by two of his sons, Edward and Richard. At the present time Edward Weber, the elder brother, is seriously ill in a sanitarium in Long Island.

During the more than three-quarters of a century that Weber's meat market was in existence it was noted for the fine quality of meat carried, and the closing of the business ends the final chapter in the life of one of the best known meat markets in Kingston.

It's All In What You're Built For!

Island Dock Concrete Blocks are built to take it. They are tested periodically in the Testing Laboratory of Columbia University, which proves their strength and their uniformity. They are stronger than required by the Fire Ordinance of the City of Kingston.

In our paint store window we have on display the One Millionth Concrete Block built on the Island Dock. It could be any one of the other 999,999 built—for each block has the same proportion of cement, sand and crushed stone. When you specify Island Dock Concrete Blocks you KNOW exactly what you get!

See this concrete block on display at our Paint Store, 291 Wall St., all this week.

Shortage Caused By Buying Spurt Wholesaler Says

A consumers' "panic" which pushed sugar, flour and other staples upward last week at the outbreak of European hostilities was reported as receding by one large wholesaler, who expressed a belief that once the American public realized that there was plenty of supplies on hand for all emergencies and that the present shortage was being created solely by a "consumer panic," the unusual demand would cease and near normal conditions would exist in the food market.

Last week when it became apparent that Europe was at war many people, who usually bought sugar in five and 10 pound lots immediately went out and bought a hundredweight. Others made purchases in smaller quantities, but purchased at several stores.

The result was a shortage in sugar on hand, but there is no shortage in the country," said the wholesaler. "The public is responsible for this temporary shortage and the consumer is responsible for an upward movement in price."

Flour which is purchased by many city people in five and ten pound lots was being bought last week in 24 1/2 pound sacks one local retailer said. "People without stopping to remember the huge wheat crops turned in and bought flour in increased quantities and created an artificial shortage when they began to 'hoard' flour," said the retailer. He referred to numerous customers, who had made unusually large purchases of foodstuffs far in excess of their normal demand.

"There is plenty of sugar in the country," said a local wholesaler, who said his firm had secured 1,000 bags on Saturday to supply the increased demand. A strike in one of the large sugar refineries has curtailed production for some time and this coupled with the "war scare" demand has created an acute temporary shortage which will be relieved as soon as the difficulty is adjusted and sugar can be obtained from this large refinery.

The sudden demand for flour has placed Minneapolis mills in a peculiar position. "Operating only part time for some time past, the mills now have orders on hand sufficient to keep them busy for a long time at full capacity but they don't know just what to do," said a wholesaler who had talked to a Buffalo milling concern in an endeavor to get an immediate supply of flour. He admitted there was no large stock of milled flour on hand, but it could be readily produced.

"Meanwhile with the public far above normal because of the 'hoarding' tendency, it is almost impossible to supply this sudden big demand," he said.

Pork is another commodity which has leaped upward. Wholesale prices on loin pork has advanced from 17 cents to 32 cents.

Sugar, which was being sold for 4.8 cents per pound before the present war demand was quoted today at 7 cents in many places.

A scene from "The Affairs of Anatole," by Ruth Chatterton, however, came as a highlight on the bill and the tops in humor was represented in the act by Joe Cook, famous Broadway comedian.

The Country Club Caddies were on hand again this year to open the performance and they made the usual hit with the audience. Other acts of local talent included

Woodstock, September 11.—The annual Country Club Revue featuring several noted stars and Rube Goldberg as master of ceremonies closed the season at the Woodstock Playhouse Saturday evening, with a packed house.

The prospects of seeing five outstanding celebrities in the world of entertainment made the "sell-out" easy this year, but Nino Martini, noted opera singer, Elissa Landi, stage and screen star and Alex Morrison were unable to make an appearance.
